

November 15, 2006

PUAF 700: U.S. Trade: Policy and Politics
Fall 2006

PART TWO: FOUR CRITICAL PERSPECTIVES

Following are the signups for Part II. As discussed earlier, the responsibility this time is not a formal presentation, but rather (a) to make a structured critical contribution to discussion of the week's book; and, in general, (b) to play a particularly active role in that discussion.

Each student is expected to read each of the books, and participate in each discussion. We need to pay particular attention to the logic of each author's basic arguments and the evidence s/he brings to bear. We will also be relating them as appropriate to analyses encountered earlier in the seminar.

Papers on the books which students choose are due the week following the session. Again the papers should be double-spaced. The maximum is again 1700 words—please provide a word-count.

- - - - -

November 15: More Than You Wanted to Know About What You Wear

Reading: Pietra Rivoli, The Travels of a T-Shirt in the Global Economy.

Ankur Huria, Chris Mari, Mike McDonald,
Meredith McLeod, Dan Prud'homme, Mike White

November 29, 4-8 pm: (1) A Reasonable Choice?

Reading: Daniel W. Drezner, U.S. Trade Strategy: Free Versus Fair

Gil Avin, Lucas Bossard, Karri Dvir, Carolina Fernandez, Mario Stylianou

November 29, 4-8pm: (2) Why Did NAFTA Happen?

Reading: Frederick Meyer, Interpreting NAFTA.

Erin McNerney, Jason Smith, Meghan Wallace

December 6: Political Backwash?

Amy Chua, World on Fire. November 16:

Brett Marvin, Carlos Rodriguez, Mat Zulauf